A photograph of a bouquet of lavender flowers in a wooden vase. The vase is made of light-colored wood with a visible grain. The lavender stems are green and have small, silvery-green leaves. The flowers are in various stages of bloom, with some showing small purple buds. The background is a rough, textured wall in shades of beige and brown. The lighting is soft and natural, casting gentle shadows.

Lavender was chosen as the defining element of this collection, inspired by the beauty and serenity of summer. Its delicate purple hues, distinctive fragrance, and association with the Mediterranean landscape evoke a sense of calm, warmth, and natural elegance.

Combined with natural wood and resin, lavender brings together organic textures and soft colours, creating a subtle balance between nature and contemporary design. Each piece captures the essence of summer, transforming a fleeting moment of nature into a timeless object, crafted to be experienced through its appearance, texture, and unique character.

“Lavender Collection by BOUF Studio” presents a series of handcrafted objects inspired by the colours and essence of lavender.

The collection includes a bench, a side table, two candle holders, two lighting pieces, a coat stand, a floor vase, a notebook, two drinking glasses, a set of three bowls, a serving tray, and a business card holder—forming a cohesive design proposal that combines natural elements, distinctive colours, functionality, and timeless aesthetics.
